HARPER'S

Magazine For Christmas

"The influence which the Harper periodicals have exercised in every channel of improving thought and achievement can scarcely be measured; it has flowed continuously on, over vast areas, among millions of people, learned and unlearned, upon all of whom it has acted as an elevating, refining force."-Philadelphia Ledger.

"Too much cannot be said of HARPER'S MAGAZINE. It is difficult to speak of it in enthusiastic terms without passing the bounds of self-restraint. The reader who holds it in his hand for the first time, however, will realize the difficulty of doing the MAGAZINE justice. The fiction is unvaried in excellence."-Boston Transcript.

"From 'The Editor's Study' (among the last pages of HARPER'S MAGAZINE every month) comes the thought that cheers, illumines, inspires. Mr. Alden makes us see what was not clear before; he draws from a rich experience and a limitless fancy. Some of us begin to read the magazine backward and often we get no further in our first reading than the 'Study' itself, but come away, gently closing the door, as one walks softly out of church after service."-Correspondence N. Y. Times.

66Eve's Diary' Mark Twain

A Companion Piece to His Famous "Adam's Diary"

ППНЕ CHRISTMAS HARPER'S is a de luxe book of 170 pages, bound in crimson and gold, full of paintings in color and tint. It is probably the most beautiful magazine ever printed. Howard Pyle has painted for it four wonderful pictures in full color, and Elizabeth Shippen Green has painted a series of eight pages in color illustrating some quaintly delightful child songs by Josephine Preston Peabody. A few of the writers contributing to the Christmas number are: Maurice Maeterlinck, W. D. Howells, Mary E. Wilkins, Jack London, Booth Tarkington, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Grover Cleveland, Edmund Gosse, Thomas R. Lounsbury,

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS.

Purport of Resolutions Introduced by Senator Tillman.

Senator Tillman has introduced two rese lutions which are intended to bring out the fact as to whether any of the national banks of the country have made campaign contributions in recent years. The first of the resolutions directs the Secretary or the Treasury to report to the Senate whether any of the reports of the examiners of national banks made since 1893 have been destroyed and whether such reports as are on file show that contributions have been made by the banks to campaign commit-tees. The other resolution directs the Sen-ate committee on privileges and elections to inquire into the same subject.

Mr. Tillman asked for present considera-tion of the first resolution, but under ob-jection from Senators Gallinger and Lodge it went over until today. The other reso-lution was referred to the committee on privileges and elections.

MISS MARMARA HENRY,

5086 Forestville Ave.. CHICAGO.

Miss Henry says: "Before I began using Danderlue my hair was falling out in great handfuls, and I am pleased to say that Danderlue not only stopped it at once, but has made my hair grow more than twice as long as it ever was."

Mrs. Eloise Atherton, Little Rock, Ark., says: "It is surely remarkable the way Danderine improves the hair. It has made my hair grow ten inches louger in five months, and it is getting thicker and longer all the time. I believe in giving praise where it is due, and you can use my name as reference if you so desire."

215 Mohawk Street, Since it has become generally known that Danderine causes hair to grow just as abundantly on the heads of children as it does on those of matured persons, many truly marvelous cases are coming to our notice. Little Miss Russell, whose photograph appears above, is certainly one of the remarkable ones. Her beautiful hair is over thirty inches long and her mother says that "DANDERINE GREW EVERY BIT OF IT."

below my waist when I began using your Danderine. It was also faded and splitting at the ends. Now it is over 21/2 feet longer than it ever was and it has regained its original rich blond color. I used the tonic about four months altogether."

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhibitanting, fertilizing and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. IT IS THE NATURAL FOOD OF THE HAIR, SCIENTIFICALLY CHARGED WITH NEW AND GENUINE LIFE-PRODUCING ESSENCES UNHEARD OF BY OTHER MAKERS OF HAIR TONIC. NOW at all druggists' in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE— To show how quickly DANDERINE acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO, with their name and address and ten cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

MILITARY ORDER OF LOYAL DONOHOE COKE COMPANY AC-LEGION HOLDS MEETING.

"All the fighting force of the Russian army, while bowing to the demand for peace, feel that they would like another chance with the Japanese, for they were just prepared for war when it was termi-This statement was made last evening by John V. R. Hoff of the United States army in the formal meeting which followed the regular monthly meeting of the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States, held last evening at Rauscher's, corner of Connecticut avenue and L streets northwest. An interesting paper was read on "The Pea Ridge Campaign," by Brevet Major General Cyrus Bussey, United States Volunteers.

Gray-haired veterans and young men, who pay tribute to their fathers for their war record, attended the meeting held last evening to the number of about 360, the attendance including many who are prominent in war history. In the absence of Lieut. Gen. Adna R. Chaffee, the commander, Gen. M. V. Z. Woodhull, the junior vice commander, presided over the meeting, and W. P. Huxford served as recorder.

The following were received into membership by the vote of the commandery:
Third class, original—Capt. Robert Alten, United States Volunteers; First Lieut. Enoch Stahler, United States Volunteers.

Battle of Pea Ridge.

The paper on "The Pea Ridge Campaign" n the civil war, by Maj. Gen. Bussey, recited personal observations of that famous fight, which lasted for three days-March 6, and 8, 1862. Gen. Samuel R. Curtis was the general in charge of the Union forces and Gens. Van Dorn, Price and Dan Mc-Cullough were in command of the confederates. The details of the plan of battle, the progress of each separate detachment of the Union forces, how the different branches of the service were utilized and how the plans worked out in the engagement, to bring a victory over an army of 30,000 to one of 10,000, were considered in the discussion. Gen. Bussey was in com-mand of the Union cavalry, and at the close of the battle, when the rebels were put to flight, and notwithstanding their horses had had but little to eat for thirty-six hours, he and his men were still able to pursue the enemy, and made some captures.

Gen Bussey sald the credit for the victory should be given to Gen. Curtis. He stated that several articles had been published to the effect that Gen. Sigel won the victory after a reversal on the first day, but he denied this, saying that Gen. Sigel made a might have been serious. Gen. Curtis, he said, directed the battle each day, and it was his orders and his plans for the fight which were followed and which resulted in the rout of the enemy. This talk was fol-lowed by a luncheon, after which the party returned to the meeting room for the informal speeches and the music.

The consideration of the Russian army in Manchurla by Maj. John V. R. Hoff, who was sent by this government to the Russian-Japanese war to watch the progress of the war and its lessons from a medical standpoint, was a feature of the evening. He spent several months with the Russian army at the scene of the war, and his o'cervations were to the effect that Russia was just ready to fight the war when it was terminated at Portsmouth. Maj. Hoff had the attention of the entire gathering while he was speaking. He said that after he had learned of the reverses of the Russians and had read of the conditions in the same attentions. had read of the conditions in the far east. as sent to this country in news dispatches as sent to this country in news dispatches, he had expected, upon reaching the front of the Russian army, to find a terrible state of demoralization and insanitary condi-tions. It was with surprise that he looked over conditions at the front. All the time the war was going on Russia was fighting a retreating war, but was preparing her army and her strongholds for future victories. The army was never routed in any battle, he said, but retreated slowly for strategic

The Russians were just learning how to fight the war, he said. Manchuria is like Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska—fertile—and the crops which were being raised there when the war ceased would feed 1,000,000 men for a year. The conditions in the forts and fortified places were averalled. and fortified places were excellent, espe-cially from a sanitary standpoint, as improvements were fast being made while the war was going on. The white uniform which the Russian soldiers were at the beginning of the war and which made them target for the foe was abolished and all the new troops were being sent out wear-ing the khakl uniform. The arms of the Russians were of the best make and Krupp guns were being sent to them.

Transportation Facilities. The transportation facilities along the railroad were not as pictured in many news dispatches, he said. The trains were being run regularly and the quarters of the soldiers thereon were ample. The Russian soldiers, he was surprised to find, were in the best of spirits. They were being fed weil and well taken care of, and were eager to fight when the war was halted.

"While 80 per cent of the Russians are ignorant, the Russian is a magnificent specimen of organic matter," he said. "The men are rarely below six feet in height, limitless in endurance." When asked why Russia submitted to peace, when they were just ready for war, he said it was sought because of the internal disorders at home.

An intimation by Senator Proctor of Vermont that he might retire from the Senate March 3, 1909, two years in advance or the expiration of his term, caused the report that he would resign in the near Contributions of Corporations. Senator Culberson has introduced a bill making it a felony for an insurance company or any other corporation to contribute money or anything of value toward the election of a President or a Vice President of the United States. Secretary Root, Secretary Taft and Col. Edwards, chief of the insular bureau, were in conference at the State Department yesterday with Admiral Sir Cyprian Bridge and Raleigh Philipotts of England, representing the British bondholders of the Manila Railway Company, relative to a claim made by the latter for rent and damages to the Manila and Dagupan railway, during a period of fourteen months, at the time of the insurrection in the Philippines. The claim amounts to about $1,500,000. Although the conference lasted for an hour

CUSES PENNSYLVANIA R. R.

Charges of unlawful discrimination, favoritism, lack of good faith, manipulation to further its own financial ends and of stiffing competition are contained in a com plaint filed yesterday with the interstate commerce commission by the Donohoe Coke Company of Greensburg, Pa., against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in connection with the Keystone Coal and Coke Company and the Huron Coal Company corporations of the state of Pennsylvania. According to the complaint, the Donohoe company is engaged in mining and shipping coal and the manufacture and shipping of coke to various points in Illinois, New York, New Jersey and the New England states. Complainant avers that the railroad company has devised certain ratings of output of the several mines in the vicinity of Greensburg, by which the pro rata distribution of cars is alleged to be made. Although the petitioner claims to have a larger output than either of the two companies named, it is asserted that the railroad company has arbitrarily increased the rating of output of the said Keystone and Huron companies, by which they are given increased car facilities, thus unlawfully discriminating in their

The charge also is made that further unlawful discrimination is practiced by the railroad company against the complainant and other shippers in the locality mentioned who do not own private cars, by failing and refusing to count private cars against the two mines named in distributing the cars owned by the railroad. It is déclared that the railroad company, in the handling of cars, especially in winter, when the price of coal is high, pretends, with a lack of faith that it is required to move first the private cars of the Keystone and Huron companies, and that thereafter the railroad company sets up the claim that it is unable by reason of insufficient facilities or capacity of its equipment to move its own cars.

The allegation also is made that the railroad further discriminates by transferring or pretending to transfer to favored ship pers, by lease, sale or otherwise, cars actu-ally belonging to said railroad, so that under the system of distribution adopted these cars are not counted against the favored parties, thus giving them more cars than they are entitled to receive. After further charging that the railroad company has re-fused to haul or permit to be hauled to certain localities the kinds of cars the rail-road furnished, the broad allegation is made that the railroad company and certain of its officers and employes manipulate and control the car supply by reason of having a financial interest in the Keystone and Huron companies, and that the discriminations complained of are due to said rail road, its officers and employes desiring to further their own pecuniary interests by reducing the supply of coal in the market and thereby increasing the price of the same and crushing out competition of independent companies.

The petition concludes with a prayer that the railroad company be required to answer the complaint, as well as to cease and desist in its alleged unlawful discrimina-tion, and that such other relief be given as the commission may determine upon.

STATE OF THE BANKS

ANNUAL REPORT OF CONTROLLER RIDGELY.

The annual report of William B. Ridgely, controller of the currency, has been pre pared for transmission to Congress. National banks have made five reports in the period beginning November 10, 1904, and ending August 25, 905, and there has period beginning November 10, 1904, and ending August 25, 905, and there has been an increase in banks in that time from 5,477 to 5,757. Lonas and discounts representing over 50 per cent of the banks' aggregate resources steadily increased from $3,772,638,941.58 on November 10, 1904, to $3,998,509,152.62 on August 25, 1905. The increase in bonds on deposit as security for circulation was from $425,759,090 to $477,-592,690, the increase being approximately

The paid-in capital stock on August 25, 1905, was approximately $800,000,000, the exact amount being $799,870,229, and the earnings-surplus and other undivided rofits-were $620,200,000. On November 10, 1904, the capital paid in was slightly in xcess of $776,000,000. August 25, 1905, individual deposits amounted to $3,820,681,713.23, an increase since November 10, 1904, of $112,900,000. The government deposits, including deposits of United States disbursing officers, decreased from $10,300,000 on November 10, 1004 to $82,000,000, August 25, 1005. 1904, to $62,000,000 on August 25, 1905. In the past year there was a gross addition to the authorized capital of national banks of $59,336,240, of which $33,532,500 were from banks organized since October 31, 1904, and $25,803,740 from old associations increasing their capitalization.

The average capital of the 3,617 national banks in existence on March 14, 1900, was $170,000. At the close of business on October 31, 1905, the average capital of the 5,858 banks then in operation had been reduced to $138,000, the reduction being due to the organization of banks with capital of less than $50,000, under authority of the act of March 14, 1900, the latter being organized generally with capital of $25,000, although the exceptions raised the average of that class of banks to approximately $26,000. The controller would therefore renew his recommendation that the $3,000,000 limit on the retirement of circulation be repealed.
